VOLUME 18 | EIGHT PAGES | MARYVILLE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, JUNE 16, 1927 | EIGHT PAGES | NO. 11

MAY ORGANIZE N. W. MISSOURI

A DISTRICT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE IS PROPOSED.

URGED BY PRINCETON

Northeast, Southwest And Southeast Sections Of State Already Have Such Organizations.

Now that the Southwest Missouri Chamber of Commerce, the Southeast Missouri Chamber of Commerce and the Northeast Missouri Chamber of Commerce have been organized, Northwest Missouri is to be next.

The call for a similar organization in this section of the state has been issued by the Princeton Chamber of Commerce, and the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, according to information received here, will be asked to cooperate.

The Northeast Missouri Chamber of Commerce was organized last week at Mexico. The proposed organization for Northwest Missouri, according to the Princeton chamber would include the nineteen counties in the Teachers College district.

"Help us in any way that appeals to you," the Princeton organization urges. Continuing, the appeal says:

"We like the idea of the regional organization. This territory must be organized in self-defense, if for no other reason. But there are other reasons. We need cooperation and organization in such important matters as highways, state parks, industry, transportation, agricultural conditions, etc. When it comes to state-wide matters, if we are not properly represented, the organized section will have the advantage and we get the left-overs."

The nineteen counties proposed for the Northwest Missouri Chamber of Commerce are: Carroll, Livingston, Grundy, Mercer, Ray, Caldwell, Daviess, Harrison, Clay, Clinton, DeKalb, Gentry, Worth, Platte, Buchanan, Andrew, Nodaway, Holt and Atchison.

In all probability, a meeting will be called at an early date at Cameron, that point being the most centrally located.

The funeral will probably be held Saturday, but other arrangements have not been made.

Mrs. Hayzlett was born in Zanesville, Ohio, and came to Nodaway County when 6 years old. She had lived in the Skidmore and Graham vicinities for the last seventy years.

Surviving Mrs. Hayzlett are four sons and five daughters. They are: S. F. and Elmer Hayzlett, Mrs. J. R. Miller, Mrs. Robert Noblet, Mrs. Lee Wright, Mrs. John Geyer and Miss Myrtle Hayzlett, all of Graham, Logan Hayzlett, Basin, Wyd.; and J. G. Hayzlett, Shenandoah, Ia. She also leaves one sister and three brothers, Mrs. Osie Cowden, Graham; Aaron Cole, Fillmore; Oscar Cole, Parone, Colo., and Charles Cole, Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. Hayzlett died about eleven years ago.

Says Court Papers Taken for Blackmail

Judge Ben Lindsey Charges Attempts to Get Intimate Facts About Prominent Families of Denver.

Denver, June 16.—An attempt to gain control of intimate facts about the lives of some of Denver's most prominent people through the theft of confidential papers in juvenile court, failed today according to Judge Ben B. Lindsey.

Lindsey said he was satisfied the attempt was made to gain control of the papers for use in blackmail.

Miss Hildred Hinton has returned to St. Joseph after a week's vacation visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hinton, near Pickering. Miss Hinton was graduated this spring from the Nurses' Training School of the Missouri Methodist Hospital and will continue her work at the hospital until fall.

Lindbergh Stamp Is to Be Issued, June 18

Tribute To Flier Will Be Designed For Air Mail Postage And Will Cost 10 Cents.

The local postoffice has received notice that the Lindbergh stamp by the postal department, will go on sale in four principal cities June 18 and at other places as soon as the sale warrents.

The stamp is in tribute to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, a former air mail carrier, the first to cross the Atlantic by air in one hop.

It will be a 10 cent stamp for air mail postage, 75-100 by 154-100 inches and printed in blue. It is intended to cover first letter mail rate on postage. The central design represents Lindbergh's plane in flight; across the top of the stamp in white Roman letters are "U. S. Postage," and immediately below, "Lindbergh air mail." At the left of the design appears the American coast line with "New York," and opposite the European coast line, with word "Paris."

FISH LAW IN EFFECT SOON

SEASON TO BE CLOSED DURING SPAWNING.

AFFECTS CHANNEL CAT

Can't Be Taken Between July 3 And July 10.—Closed Seasons On Other Species Already Past.

A law which was sponsored by the state game and fish department and passed at the last session of the legislature, setting aside certain periods in the year when game fish are protected from the anglers, goes into effect July 3. Only two species of fish will come under the provisions this year—the channel cat and trout.

The law is designed to protect the principal game fish during their respective spawning seasons. It provides closed seasons for taking of these fish or having them in possession as follows:

Trout—November 1st to May 30th.
Bass—March 1st to May 30th.
Crappie—March 1st to May 30th.
Jack Salmon—March 1st to May 30th.
Goggle Eye—March 1st to May 30th.
Channel Cat—June 10th to July 10th.

A Mistaken Impression.

The impression seems to be current that no fishing whatever will be permitted during March, April and May. It will be permissible, however, for any fish except trout, bass, crappie, jack salmon and goggle eye to be taken during these months. Therefore, channel cat may be caught during the spring months, also other species of cat. All kinds of perch, including blue gill and yellow perch, may be taken and it will be legal to take drum, carp and other species of the sucker family at any time.

According to reports from Jefferson City, many people throughout the state are applying to the Game and Fish Department for county and state hunting and fishing licenses. There seems to be a general misunderstanding that these licenses are issued by the state department to residents of the state, states the report. The department has announced that licenses are issued from the state department only to non-residents of Missouri.

Clerks Sell Licenses.

State and county licenses, as well as non-resident licenses are issued by the county clerks, who in turn are permitted to delegate others in their county to issue licenses. Fred Wright, county clerk, said he has sold seventeen state fishing and hunting licenses, nine state fishing licenses and one non-resident fishing licenses and stated he has authorized six sub-agents in the county.

They are J. C. Piper, Elmo; W. T. Humphrey, Clearmont; Earl McDonald, Quitman; E. W. Geyer, Graham; Paul Stalling, Barnard; and George Weathermon, Guilford.

Since the first of the year 666 fishing and hunting licenses have been issued in this county, 552 of them from Mr. Wright's office and the other by the sub-agents.

State hunting and fishing licenses sell for $2.50; non-resident fishing licenses are $3 and state fishing licenses are $1. State fishing licenses are required only when the prospective fisherman intends to fish in some other county besides the one in which he resides.

BYRD TO HOP OFF SUNDAY?

FLIER MAY ATTEMPT TO SET NEW NON-STOP RECORD.

REFUSES TO COMMENT

One Report Says Commander Will Go Straight To Petrograd; Two Plan Hawaii Trip.

New York, June 16.—Commander Richard Byrd arrived in New York today from his home in Virginia and after arrival word was given out that he hoped to leave Sunday on his long awaited flight to Europe.

Officially the destination will be Paris. Reports from reliable sources, although not confirmed by Byrd, have it that the flight may develop into one unusually spectacular.

From best information available it seems possible that Byrd would attempt to set a new non-stop flight record. Some predicted he would fly over Paris and continue to Berlin. Another report was that he would head straight for Petrograd, in the hope of reaching there, refueling and resting and then returning over Europe and flying to South America before returning to the United States.

Byrd has refused to confirm any reports and has not commented on any of them.

Rival Pacific Groups.

San Francisco, June 16.—Each hoping to be the first to fly from California to Hawaii, two groups of aviators were rushing work on their planes today.

Richard Grace, of Oakland, plans to make the flight attempt as soon as a Wright whirlwind motor can be installed in his plane.

Ernest Smith, San Francisco, and C. H. Carter, Los Angeles, hope to be ready to take off within two weeks. Neither of the expeditions plan to wait for the James C. Dole $35,000 prize contest, which opens August 12.

Marriage License Business in Slump

Reports from several cities in the state that the recorders of deeds are doing a rushing marriage license business has not held true in Nodaway County so far this June.

Up to the 11th only two licenses had been issued here, but there has been an increased business since that date. With the issuance of a license this morning to Ira Ellis, age 65, and Mrs. Mary E. Phipps, age 49, both of Lake City, Ia., the total for this month was still one below the number that had been issued up to June 16, last year, when ten had been sold.

The Iowa couple were married this morning by Judge Jesse F. Robertson of the probate court.

June 14 was the banner day of June to date. Three marriage licenses were sold by Deputy Recorder J. N. Geyer, and one was issued yesterday.

Last June eighteen licenses were issued. June this year, with but fourteen remaining days, will have to hurry Dan Cupid along to equal the 1926 performance.

Recalls History of the Orear Building

front of the Orear building, on Main street begun today, recalled to Alf Royston, a pioneer citizen here, that the location had been used for a drug store since 1868, until less than three years ago.

Drugs were dispensed there by Jacob Howendobler and his son, A. M., in a frame building until '81, when the brick building was erected on the site.

The Howendoblers conducted a drug store there until along about 1912, when it was sold to E. G. Orear, and the latter ran the drug store until the Eversole drygoods store took possession.

The Main street sidewalk in front of the building was blocked this morning while workment tore down huge timbers and pulled out bricks in the upper store.

FLOOD DAMAGE MAY REACH 400 MILLION TOTAL

Secretary Hoover Places Estimate on Havoc Wrought in Mississippi Valley.

Washington, June 16.—Flood damage in the Mississippi Valley will probably total between $200,000,000 and $400,000,000, Secretary of Commerce Hoover estimated today in an exclusive interview with the United Press.

He added, however, that the determination of the final figure must wait on a house to house canvass.

Hoover declared that the flood rehabilitation financing plan had been widely misunderstood. Army engineers, he said, are working on flood control plans, but none is yet ready for submission to the War Department. More than 600 suggestions from all parts of the world have come to Hoover.

FEELING RUNS HIGH IN RUSSIA

SENTENCE FOLLOWING ASSASSINATION AROUSES SOVIET.

WARNED BY GERMANY

Communist Propaganda Has Created Unfavorable Impression, Chancellor Marx Says.

Berlin, June 16.—Chancellor Wilhelm Marx today informally told the Russian foreign commissioner that Communist propaganda abroad and the recent Soviet Russian executions had created an unfavorable impression on the representatives of the powers now assembled at Geneva.

German officials expressed hope that there would be a friendly adjustment of Poland's difficulties with Russia.

Moscow, June 16.—Great indignation was evident here over the result of Boris Kowerda's trial in Warsaw for the assassination of the Soviet minister to Poland.

The sentence passed, which gave an indefinite imprisonment with a recommendation that the term be fixed at fifteen years hard labor, was in no way satisfactory. Discontent was also evidenced regarding the fact that the court had chosen to regard the assassination as an isolated incident, rather than as a part of the "monarchist conspiracy against Russia." The latter view is that taken by Moscow.

Authorities did not see in the situation today any danger of war between Russia and Poland.

COOLIDGE TO RUSTIC HOME

LAST LEG BY MOTOR

Rapid City Imports a Cannon to Fire Presidential Salute.—Can See Big Game From Porch.

Cal Finds Fishing Good.

Rapid City, S. D., June 16.—Seven shiny rainbow trout were caught by President Coolidge in his first fishing expedition at the summer residence today. The President started early after breakfast and his catch was the result of about an hour's work.

Meanwhile the little town of of Rapid City was preparing itself to be the summer capital of the United States.

Rapid City, S. D., June 16.—After a 2,000 mile trip across the country from Pennsylvania avenue and the White House, President Coolidge arrived here late yesterday aboard his special train to "rough it" for three months in the wilds of the Black Hills—the country of "Buffalo Bill," "Calamity Jane," and "Wild Bill" Hickock.

Abandoning the comforts of city life as he left his train, Mr. Coolidge set out in an automobile for his lodge thirty-two miles up in the hills, where he will live in a state-owned lodge surrounded by virgin pine forests, leaping mountain streams and cold spring lakes.

The special train carrying the President and the White House retinue ended its 1,900-mile journey at 5:30 o'clock mountain time, and soon afterward Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge stepped from their car to the lusty cheers of Rapid City's inhabitants. Rapid City also welcomed it's first presidential resident with the roar of twenty-one guns, the presidential salute, from a cannon brought down from Ft. Meade.

Gefore the motor caravan carrying the presidential party hastened through the crowd-lined streets toward the hills, the President received Mayor Jepson of this city and Representative Williams of South Dakota. When they stopped for pictures, an informal reception line quickly formed and city officials and their wives filed past to shake the hands of the President and Mrs. Coolidge.

Escorts of state officials and dignitaries of this western country accompanied him to the Summer White House in the State Park encompassing 125,000 acres where buffalo range on native grass, a thousand elk munch shrubs at the roadside and Big Horn sheep stare resentfully at the inroads of man.

Lodge A Former Hotel.

The lodge is a former hotel which was offered the President by the State of South Dakota, and is located on a gravel road 4,400 feet above the plains, 14 miles from the nearest railroad, and 32 miles from Rapid City. It is said to be the only hotel in the United States where guests may sit on the veranda and see the elk, deer, Big Horn sheep, and other native game animals graze on the front lawn.

The mosquito is unknown here, and a hearth fire is necessary at night to take the chill out of the atmosphere which at times may be rent by the shrill cry of a mountain lion or other wild beasts.

Guards of oaks and birch stand sentinels with the pines about the house, which has been equipped with a telephone and electric lights especially for this occasion. A garage at the side of the entrance driveway houses the Presidential cars. The Secret Service men have established a camp half a mile away, where they will sleep in permanent tents.

Within a short automobile ride of his door, there are a dozen places Mr. Coolidge plans to visit. North of the park 20 miles is "Dark Canyon," a deep cleft where sunlight never enters, one of the show spots of the region. About an hour and a half ride to the north lies the gold region known as "The Richest Ten Square Miles in the World," where more than $200,000,000 of gold has been taken from the hills.

Home Of Noted Characters.

Three miles away is Deadwood, where "Buffalo Bill" lived and "Calamity Jane," a femal Robin Hood, who stole from the rich to give to the poor, spent her time between the jail and the street. Here also is buried "Wild Bill Hickock," noted gunman of the West, who had more notches in his gun than any other man, and who maintained peace and order as an officer of the law until he was killed.

A thousand feet above Deadwood is a monument erected to Theodore Roosevelt, placed there by his friends in the 90's when his home was a ranch house on the Little Missouri River.

A few miles to the south of the lodge is Hot Springs, where are located many hospitals and sanitariums, the State Soldiers' Home, the National Sanitarium for Disabled Veterans, and a Veterans' Tuberculosis Hospital.

Missouri Elks Raise $85,000 for Refugees

Mexico, Mo., June 16.—Contributions of $85,000 by Missouri Elks lodges to the national organization for Mississippi Valley flood relief, was announced here today by Col. Fred A. Morris, grand treasurer of the National Fraternal organization.

This amount, as distinct from aid given through the general American Red Cross relief agencies, was expended almost entirely in strictly first aid emergency work, before the arrival of organized relief, Morris said.

"STRANGLER" IS CAPTURED

CANADIANS HOLD MAN ACCUSED OF MANY MURDERS.

AN ALL-NIGHT SEARCH

1,000 Civilians Join Officers and Detectives After Suspect Escapes From Jail.

Winnipeg, Canada, June 16. — The suspected strangler—for whom more than 1,000 civilians, imported detectives and local authorities had been searching all night—was captured near Killarney, Manitoba, today.

The suspect was arrested yesterday but escaped from jail within fifteen minutes after he was locked up.

Police are certain that the suspect is the stranger wanted for two murders here and for murders in most of the principal cities of the United States.

Guarded by heavy scores of armed deputies a special train was carrying him to Winnipeg today. Secrecy surrounded plans to remove him to the jail. Feeling is running high and authorities admitted they may have to resort to strenuous means to protect the prisoner.

Crowds similar in size to those which waited for news of the Lindbergh flight crowded the streets in front of newspaper offices today.

Sedalia, Mo., June 16.—Two youths who fled from the home of G. F. Copas here last night after it had been wrecked by an explosion which killed Elmer Stark, 19, were sought by police today in an effort to find some explanation for the mysterious blast.

Officials admitted they were at loss to account for the explosion or for the presence of the three youths in the house.

Britain Building a Leviathan of Air

New Airship to Have Cabins for 100 Passengers and Will Fly at 80 Miles an Hour.

London, June 16.—Statistical details of the construction of the new leviathan of the air now under construction by the British government have been revealed by Commander C. D. Burney, designer of the huge dirigible.

The new airship will have cabins for 100 passengers, and fly at 80 miles an hour. It will be capable of flying from London to Canada in 48 hours, to South Africa or India in four days, or Australia in seven days. The gross weight of the airship is greater than that of the vessel in which Columbus crossed the ocean and discovered America.

If the rivets going into the construction of the dirigible were laid end-on-end they would make a line of rivets seven miles long. It contains eleven miles of tubing, two miles of insulated electric cable, and four-and-a-half acres of outer covering.

It is approximately 750 feet long and 130 feet in diameter at its thickest part. The lifting power will be hydrogen, and the motive power will be supplied by engines running partly on fuel oil and partly on hydrogen gas, gradually withdrawn from the envelope of the dirigible in proportion to the lightening of the load due to the consumption of the liquid fuel.

Field Mice Blamed for Damage to Corn

Rodents Are Worse Than Cutworms, Says C. A. Aley, Hopkins.—Oscar Mutti Replants 40 Acres.

C. A. Aley has a different story to tell about inroads made on his stand of corn. Most of the farmers attribute their misfortune to cut worms but Mr. Aley says field mice are responsible for his corn not being as good a stand as it otherwise would have been, hundreds of the little pests being busy eating the hearts out of the corn. He says he would rather have cut worms than mice anytime, as lots of the corn cut down by the cut worms, will come on again but when the mice get the kernels, that ends the story.

Oscar Mutti had to replant forty acres of corn last week that mice had worked on.

N. Orme says the farmers who think cut worms always cut corn off at the top of the ground are wrong for last week he dug into four or five hills of corn that he found destroyed and at the roots of the corn in each hill he found a big, fat cut worm.—Hopkins Journal.

Pedagogs Bow to Students in Intramural Basketball Game

A large crowd of College students assembled in the State Teachers College gymnasium yesterday afternoon and saw the faculty basketball team go down in defeat at the hands of a group of students. It was the first game of the intramural tournament at the College, and the score was 32 to 24. In the second game, played immediately after the first, the Headlights, captained by Donald Berst, won from the Pirates, led by Ray Ferguson, 29 to 8.

The faculty game was much better than had been anticipated. The teachers put up a mighty struggle, but they didn't have the staying power, and their strength waned visibly shortly after each rest period.

H. Frank Lawrence, Paul Jones, William L. Mapel, Merle Seleeman, L. M. Eek, Karl Kettering, and Lon Wilson were the members of the Pedagogs. The Mules, the victors, were Lloyd Hollar, Olin Wakely, "Ole" Cox, Donaldson, McKinley, and Lester.

The game started off with a goal by the Pedagogs. A two-pointer by the opposition followed, and all through the first quarter the score was nip and tuck, the period ending with the teachers leading, 8 to 6. At the end of the half young blood had asserted itself and the instructors were trailing, 18 to 24.

The second half started off briskly, and soon but 4 points separated the two teams. But again the teachers weakened, and when the game ended they were losers by 8 points.

The Headlights had everything their way in the second game. Ferguson's team could not cope with the victors, and in the last half there was visible loafing on both sides. The Headlights were made up of Captain Berst, Murdock, Adams, Hedges, Owens, and Brown. The Pirates were Captain Ferguson, Tramer, Glenn, Tye, Berth, and Lucas.

This afternoon the Bulldogs and the Bears and the Lozenges and the Indians will play. The losers in yesterdays games go into the consolation round of the tournament. They will play on June 21. The winners yesterday will also play on that date.

Fish Law in Effect Soon

Keith McCanse, commissioner of the state game and fish department, states that the department has completed plans for a large extension in its activities. He said:

"Particular attention has been given to the protection division of the department and the deputy organization is now increased from twenty-five to forty men. The new plan now in force calls for thirty-six district wardens divided into three groups of twelve each. Each of these three groups, one of which will be north of the Missouri river and the other two south of the river, will be supervised by the field wardens.

"The position of field warden is a new one and due care has been exercised in selecting men qualified to fill the three that have been established. Frank DeCou, newly appointed chief of wardens, will direct the entire organization of deputy wardens.

"A stricter enforcement of the game and fish laws in conjuction with a campaign of education is the object of this extension in activities.

"A special drive is now under way against the game and fish hog and no mercy will be shown willful violaters. At the same time 50 per cent of the work of the deputies will be of an educational nature. It is recognized that an awakened public consciousness is the greatest asset that the cause of conservation can have."

Hopkins Man's Auto in Three Flipflops

Harry Demott says he has a Ford car that can put a Texas pony to shame when it comes to cutting antics. While going home from Hopkins last Friday night, Harry ran onto a soft stretch of road, at the east edge of Hopkins. He was hitting a fairly fast clip, and when the front wheels of the car struck a big chunk of mother earth, it turned three complete flipflops, and there wasn't much of it left by the time it quit rolling. Luckily, Harry escaped serious injury and after the surgeons at the Mutti & Brown garage finish their work, the car will be rarin' to go again.—Hopkins Journal.

Mrs. C. W. Kirk and daughters of Hopkins were Maryville visitors today.

Donald E. Williams, son of Mrs. E. J. Williams, was enrolled as a member of the Nodaway county bar upon the motion of E. G. Cook of the firms of McCaffrey & Cook. Donald Williams was graduated from the Maryville High School, and has just received his L. L. B. degree from the Law School at the University of Missouri.

Four Hopkins Men 334 Years of Age

Hopkins can no longer boast of many of the men who went to the front in defense of their country back in the sixties, but those still with us are quite active for men of their advanced years.

Four of the boys were together at the bank corner the other morning, the combined ages of the quartet being 334 years, as follows: T. G. Underwood, 87; J. A. Sisk, 83; Chas. McIntire, 83 and Hi Caudle, 81—Hopkins Journal.

Teacher at Cleveland Is Here for Summer

Arthur Elmore, a graduate of the State Teachers College, returned recently from Cleveland Heights, Ohio, where he has been employed the past year in the Roxboro Junior High School as teacher of music. Mr. Elmore will return to Cleveland Heights next year. He has enrolled here for the summer term, specializing in music.

Cleveland Heights is a fashionable, wealthy suburb of Cleveland. It has two junior high schools and one senior high school. Mr. Elmore said that there was about $3,000,000 spent in the school building program in Cleveland Heights, last year. One million, five hundred thousand dollars was spent for a new senior high school, $1,000,000 for a junior high building, and $500,000 for equipment. Next year the school board there plans to make extensive improvements in the grade buildings.

Mr. Elmore's work is the teaching of music in the seventh and eighth grades. In speaking of his work, he said, "Although the work is done in the seventh grades, it is really a little in advance of the work done in the same grades here. The music has been vocal for the most part, but we are planning to do quite a lot with instruments next year."

The Roxboro school recently moved into a new half million dollar building. There are 550 in the school and twenty-seven teachers, besides two principals and an office girl. The superintendent of the entire system, F. L. Wiley, was an associate teacher with Charles R. Gardner, head of the State Teachers College Conservatory of Music, in St. Louis.

The salaries of teachers in the system automatically increase from year to year until the maximum salary of $3,300 has been reached. Executives have a salary schedule of their own.

"A student who holds a degree from this College is granted a first grade state certificate in Ohio," Mr. Elmore said.

TO QUIT RING FOR COLLEGE

TO SACRIFICE $100,000

112-Pounder to Upset All Precedents by Spurning Fat Purses to Enroll in Leland Stanford.

Cleveland, June 16.—Since the days of bare knuckles, boxing has been replete with unusual characters, but Fidel La Barba, world's flyweight champion, and his manager, George Blake, stand by themselves as extraordinary figures in the business of ear-flattening.

Some time ago La Barba announced he would hang up the padded mittens as soon as he had hooked and jabbed sufficient currency into his private coffers to put him through college. Members of the boxing fraternity exchanged winks at this bit of information and told each other:

"Old stuff. La Barba's no different from the rest of his ilk, and we won't see him leaving the ring in these days of million dollar gates."

But it appears fight followers were wrong. When the September semester opens at Leland Stanford University this year, there's going to be a handsome little five-foot freshman who probably won't get into many disputes on the campus. La Barba told the United Press he is in earnest about his announcement, and emphatically denied he is guilty of a ballyhoo to increase the clicking of the turnstiles in those areas where he displays his pugilistic ability.

Fight experts agree that La Barba will be passing up $100,000 next year if he deserts the ring for higher learning. The midget boxer knows this, but believes his contemplated studies will more than compensate him for his material sacrifice.

And, contrary to numberless precedents, Blake, his manager, agrees with the little fellow. The veteran manager and ex-fighter will lose a lot of cash by La Barba's decision, but apparently that doesn't bother him.

"If Fidel wants to quit fighting and go to college, it's all right with me," he told the United Press. "I know he could pick up $100,000 in another year as champion if he wanted to stay in the game, but he wants an education, and I would be the last man in the world to advise him differently."

Blake, an unusual, soft-spoken type of manager, has been in the game for a long time. He witnessed La Barba win his first fight at the age of 14, and was so impressed with his style that he sent for him to come and compete in the next show at the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

On the U. S. Olympic team in 1924, La Barba won the world's flyweight title. The hard-hitting 112-pounder is far more interested in brain than brawn. He is quiet, unassuming, polished. He ought to make a popular campus idol at Leland Stanford if the co-eds don't object to five-footers.

La Barba is going to take a business course. His home is in Los Angeles, a home incidentally, he bought for his family with his first big purse, which is not exactly in common with all ex-newsboys and bowling alley pin-setters who achieve lofty heights in the squared circle.

Hard work and boxing never stilled an innate longing in La Barba for knowledge. He went through grammar school in Los Angeles. He played football on the Lincoln lightweight team, was a sprinter on the track team and managed the baseball team. He also acted as cheer leader for two years but has lived that down. At all times he was a star student and was a member of the school's Alpha Society, an organization to which only students with the highest marks were admitted. He graduated in 1925, the year he was president of his senior class.

After only ten professional fights La Barba became uncrowned king of the flyweights when Harry Ertle gave him the decision over Frankie Genaro.

CHAPTER LVII

Billy set her suitcase down in the hall of the apartment house a few paces from Dal's door before she pressed the bell below a chastely engraved card—"Dalhart Romaine." Over the telephone she had told him only that she must see him immediately at his apartment, had volunteered no explanation whatever of her unusual demand.

"Hello, darling!" He stood before her, immaculate, distinguished, a white gardenia in the lapel of his perfectly fitting coat.

"May I come in, Dal?" she laughed shakily, as he still held the door almost closed behind him.

"I'm taking you to dinner, am I not?" he countered. "I had another engagement, but I called it off, of course. My car is waiting at the curb—"

"I've got to talk with you Dal—privately. Don't be afraid of scandal," she reassured him.

She wondered why he looked so embarrassed as he threw the door wide and stepped aside for her to enter, but when she was in the room she understood. It was a mean little place, so utterly different from the setting in which she had imagined Dal Romaine that she was bewildered. It was a one-room apartment, an open door giving a dismaying glimpse of a tiny bath, the tile floor cluttered with soggy towels. The room itself was small, poorly furnished, its crude ugliness relieved only by a few pieces of carved and painted brass ware from India. There was nothing exotic about it; it was not even very clean—

"Rather poor diggings for a gentleman," Dal confessed, "I am in my apartment so little that it never seemed worth while to move. But what is the matter, darling? You frightened me almost out of my senses when you telephoned. I have never heard your voice so agitated."

Without invitation from him, Billy removed her moleskin coat, flung it, with her little jungle green velours hat, across the back of a chair, then, aware that his eyes had been watching her uneasily, she went to him and held out her arms.

"Aren't you glad to see me, Dal?" Please say you are, anyway," she begged with a laugh that was not mirthful.

He kissed her briefly, then led her to the disreputable sofa and drew her down to his side. "Something rather tremendous has happened. I can tell by the hectic light in your eyes and the red danger flags in your cheeks. Tell me, dear. I'm pardonably curious."

She lifted his hand and held it against her cheek as she told him what Winnie Shelton had done. His low, angry exclamation, "My God! the little fool!" did not interrupt the steady flow of her recital.

"So you see, dear, I—I ran away. I couldn't stay there after that. You see that, don't you? It would be too horrible to be left alone there with a stricken old man who has had every reason to lose his faith in human nature." She could not bring herself to tell him of that interview between herself and T. Q. Curtis. That should be their secret. No one should know from her that he had planned a supreme folly—that of adopting a daughter from among the three selfish schemers to whom he had played benefactor.

"So you are breaking your word to him—leaving before the year is out," Dal said thoughtfully, frowningly.

"But dear, only a week remains of the year," Billy protested, wide-eyed. "He agreed to let me go. Naturally I did not run away without telling him my reasons for leaving. He has been wonderfully kind. I would not hurt him for the world."

"Your desertion at the time of his greatest need must hurt him," Dal insisted, drawing his hand from hers and clenching his fist.

"Your consideration for Mr. Curtis' feelings rather surprises me," Billy retorted almost angrily. "Especially since you two have never liked each other. Oh, Dal, we mustn't quarrel—now!" she cried brokenly. What had happened between them? she asked herself in a panic.

"Of course we mustn't darling," he laughed tenderly. "I'm just bewildered, Billy. Your news is so startling. Come, darling, look at me! Can't you read in my eyes that I love you—utterly?"

He lifted the veiling lids slowly, gazing into her eyes deeply, so that gradually she grew limp in his arms, the old powerful spell drugging her body and her mind. Then suddenly, fiercely, he bent his head so that his lips met hers.

"Now," he exalted, "you're going to be a sensible little darling and go back to Mr. Curtis until the year is up, when you can leave in honor."

His words shocked her into alertness. "When the year is up—" Why was he so insistent? Did he guess—did he know?

She drew herself entirely out of the circle of his arms. "I'm not going back, Dal. If—of you don't want me, I'll go home—my real home, I mean—my mother's. She will take me in." She began to sob in fright and self-pity.

"Darling, darling," he remonstrated gently. "Don't be a baby. Of course I want you—"

"Then we can be married—tonight?" She melted toward him again.

"Tonight? That's rather short notice, isn't it, darling?" he teased her. "What about a license?"

"Is that all?" Billy grinned at him. "Nyda and Eddie Banning were married in the middle of the night, at Chatham, and Im sure Eddie didn't already have the marriage license. Why couldn't we follow the same program?"

"Billy, dear, please don't be angry, but I think it would be much more sensible—and beautiful—if we waited until April as we had planned. No, don't fly out at me," he begged, as she sprang to her feet with an angry exclamation. "What I want you to do is to go back to Mr. Curtis until the year is up—"

"Dal Romaine, if you say those words one more time I'll never speak to you again!" Billy surprised herself and stunned Dal Romaine by stamping her foot at him. "I've humiliated myself enought already by asking you to marry me tonight instead of waiting, but I won't repeat the request! Don't fear!"

"My dear Mignon!" Dal recovered himself with remarkable swiftness and took her clenched hands into his. "I'm sorry! Forgive me, darling! I was just trying to protect you, and to make it beautiful, not a hurried elopement. My own affairs are not in the best of shape—"

"Please, we won't discuss it any more!" Billy tried to wrench her hands from his. "I have my bag outside the door. I'm going to mother. I'll get a job at something and—" She tried to keep her voice from breaking on a sob, but failed.

"You blessed, darling little infant!" Dal's caressing voice crooned over her as he took her in his arms. "Nothing matters to me but your happiness. Come now, smile pretty for the gentleman! That's better! Excuse me now, dear, while I throw some things into a suitcase. You won't want to come back here after we're married, will you? I'll take along what I'll need for a few days."

He settled her upon the couch, kissed her lightly on the forehead, then set about packing. She watched him as he lifted hangers from the closet and arranged his clothes with meticulous care in the suitcase he had opened upon a chair. Her eyes were shy and very sweet, her mouth tremulous with an amused, tender little smile, as she followed every movement he made.

The bag was half packed when a shrill clamor from the doorbell interrupted his labors.

"I'll answer it!" she told him, springing toward the door. Already she felt as if she had a right in his "diggings," felt like a wife who takes little duties off her husband's shoulders.

That happy feeling was lost in astonishment when she opened the door upon Clara, the pretty parlor-maid of the Curtis house. Clara was as startled as Billy, but her training as a servant stood her in good stead.

"I have a note for Mr. Romaine, she told Billy, peeping over the shorter girl's shoulder into the room.

"Thank you, Clara," Billy smiled as she reached for the note.

"I was told to give it to Mr. Romaine himself, and to wait for an answer," Clara stated positively, as she pushed past Billy into the room, meeting Dal, who was striding toward her, his face darker than usual with annoyance.

Billy watched him tear open the thick, expensive envelope—stationery which Billy recognized with a sudden, sick sinking of her heart as belonging to Winnie Shelton. He read the three pages of the letter frowningly, then crushing the sheets in his hand, he turned to Clara:

"There is no answer, Clara. Here—and thank you." He drew a dollar bill from his trousers pocket and gave it to the maid, who left after another long, shrewd glance about the room, her eyes lingering upon the half packed suitcase on the chair.

He tore Winnie's letter into small bits, with vicious twists of his brown fingers. Then, smiling briefly into Billy's troubled, doubting eyes, he turned away to resume his packing, flinging the remaining garments into the case with little of the meticulous care which had marked the beginning of his packing.

Fifteen minutes later the cream-colored roadster swerved away from the curb before the imposing entrance of the apartment house, carrying a rather grim-faced bridegroom and a trembling little bride-to-be, who looked as if she were of half a mind to leap from the car and run as fast as her legs could carry her to the dear security of her mother's arms.

Winnie Shelton telephones Clay Curtis, then exposes the villainous Romaine, who is running off with Billy.

You can't look at a tire and tell how far it will run

YOU CAN'T SEE a tire carcass because it is covered by the tread. Yet the way this carcass is built tells how far the tire will run.

Dunlop has had 39 years to learn all the hidden points where tires wear. Dunlop carcasses are built from the best long fibre cotton, spun in Dunlop's own mills into the famous Dunlop cable-twist cord.

These cords are elastic, so they give and take as your tire runs; strong, so they resist constant load and pounding. They build the best possible foundation for the Dunlop tread—the toughest rubber development known.

Thus Dunlop's extra years of experience build added value into every vital tire-part. That is why, not one Dunlop—but every Dunlop—gives you more service than you can reasonably expect.

Kansas City Ford Plant Is Shut Down

Bert Davis is here from Kansas City where he has been working in the assembling department of the Ford plant, the plant having shut down last week to await the arrival of the new cars Henry is to put out soon. The Chevrolet company has been making big inroads on the business of the Ford company so Henry decided to bring out new models that will make 'em all sit up and take notice, among the models being a six-cylinder car to sell at a low price. All the new models will have gear shifts with more power and speed than the old models. Bert thinks the new cars will be ready in a couple of weeks when the plants over the country will all be running again. About fifteen hundred men were laid off in Kansas City but all can have their places back if they want them when the plant reopens.—Hopkins Journal.

Hopkins Man Boasts Wheat Hard to Beat

Harley Morehouse Tuesday morning left a bunch of wheat heads at the Journal office, some of the heads measuring over six inches in length.

It is of the beardless variety, growing on ground that was "limed" last fall. Acid was also applied to the ground and those who have seen the field say it will make at least 35 bushels to the acre. There is ten acres in the patch and is prettier than some June brides.

Harley says he used lime on part of the ground he put in sweet clover and the clover on the ground limed is a foot high and the clover on the unlimed ground is less than half this high, showing that it pays to use fertilizer. —Hopkins Journal.

Miss Esther L. Gile left today for Jefferson City to spend a few days with Miss Viva Cloud, secretary to George R. Ellison.

NEW MANAGER FOR BETHANY

CLUBS CUT PERSONNEL

Under Rules Of Northwest League, Each Must Reduce Number Of Players To Fifteen.

"Look who's here," writes H. E. Gooden of Stanberry, secretary of the Northwest Missouri Baseball League, of which John H. Sewell of Maryville is president—and he indicates the name of "Babe" Adams, manager of the Bethany Club.

From what can be learned, Adams is the first big leaguer to be connected in any way with the Northwest Missouri League. He has spent most of his baseball career with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Perhaps he will lend considerable assistance to the Bethany team which now stands next to the cellar in the League standing with one game won and four lost.

Mr. Gooden said that yesterday was the day for trimming down the personnel of each club from eighteen to fifteen players. Hopkins, King City and Gentry were the only ones that had complied yesterday with the rule, but it was expected the returns would be made by each club this week.

Maryville, Stanberry, Union Star and Bethany, each had eighteen players on the roster; Albany 17, and Gentry 14. The managers of the League teams are:

Maryville: John T. Brennan.
Albany, C. S. Ross.
Stanberry: Claire Stockton.
Hopkins: Vern Jeffers.
King City: Lester D. Wall.
Union Star: E. T. Faul.
Bethany: Babe Adams.
Gentry: W. F. Ray.

Adams arrived at Bethany, his home, Thursday after resigning as pilot of the Johnstown (Pa.) club of the Mid-Atlantic league. He explained that he had been not only that club's manager, but most of its baseball team as well. Suffering from water on the knee cap, the Bethany veteran mounted the pitcher's mound three times during his stay with the Johnstown club, and each time turned in a victory. The club had only won five games up to the time he left Johnstown, Adams said.

Adams has been told that there are two ways of relieving his lame knee, which he believes must be the result of a wrench it sustained last winter. One of these is an operation, and the other is by absorption. He is taking the latter method, treating it with hot applications of Epsom salts, but is finding the advice of physicians to remain quiet, hard to comply with. The knee is badly swelled, and the watery deposit is easily felt with the fingers, but Adams says it causes little or no pain. He will not try to sign with any baseball club until the knee is well again, he stated. Adams told of the same kind of injury having handicapped for sometime Ray Kremer, star pitcher with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

New Baseball Field for Bethany Team

Future games here in the Northwest Missouri Baseball league will be played at the Northwest Missouri State fair grounds, instead of at the field in the Big creek bottom in West Bethany.

Consent of the fair association to construct a diamond in the quarter stretch field was obtained last week, and members of the baseball club, and others, scalped an infield there and had the dirt carted away. The infield is a little farther west than the old one there was, as the free attraction platform was left standing. The old diamond was almost south of that platform, and had the new one been arranged on the same spot, view of it would have been cut off from the grand stand. Seating room for the fans is provided in the west end of the grand stand, and in the west bleachers.—Bethany Republican.

Dad to Be "It" For Whole Day

"Dad" will reign supreme in thousands of homes Sunday, June 19, for it will be Father's day.

Everybody will be doing everything possible to make him happy. Mother will prepare for him the choicest delicacies for his breakfast. She will not scold him when he smokes his pipe in the house. Son will present him with a cigar and daughter will give him a present of a bright new tie. There will be a beautiful bouquet of red roses on the dining room table in his honor.

Then when he goes to church, the choir will sing songs of praise for him and the pastor will mention him kindly in his sermon. In fact he will hear nothing but praise for himself during the entire day.

It will all be a novelty to him, and on Monday morning when he awakens, he will look back upon it all as a pleasant dream.

Sunday, June 19 has been named as the day on which Father should receive his gifts. We suggest ties, shirts, hosiery, handkerchiefs, hat, belt, underwear—a Palm Beach or Mohair Suit.
